Real Art

Pop Art uses the well-recognizable images in the artwork, mocking the consumerism culture. The AI image that was created was surprisingly on point with using faces of real iconic celebrities like Robert Pattison (a famous actor), the iconic Andy Warhol's cans and pages from comic books. It also uses the dot-like style for shadows and a vibrant color palette, using unexpected shades, which captures the viewer's attention like an advertisement is supposed to. However, some of the details seem like they do not belong there, as some of them are even hard to recognize, which goes against the idea of Pop Art as it is supposed to be all about well-known objects and people.
