One of the most important parts about surrealism is using images that do not make sense together in order to provoke the mind. AI captured objects that do not have a combined theme and created an artwork that makes the viewer question the meaning behind it. A lot of the surrealistic artists, such as Salvador Dali, used the background of the desert in their paintings quite frequently. It is the concept of being in the middle of nowhere – in a desert – contrasting with the image of the expensive looking mirror and the pastry that screams luxury. However, AI does not deliver the most realistic image of the woman as she is missing a couple of fingers, making the whole artwork appear even more unsettling. On the other hand, this might be interpreted as a part of the surrealistic concept, as having 3 fingers is very unnatural, making the concept really shine through.
